WEALTH CONDEMNED.

One periodical has had the courage to break away from the Mammon worshipping tendencies so characteristic of current periodicals.

The October "EVERYBODY'S" is a virile expression of revoit against the exaltation of money and its possessors. Instead of being filled with biographies of millionaira captains of industry, the magazine devotes significant pages to men who have done brave and patriotic deeds and attracted attention in the great field of common struggle rather than in Wall Street.

The keynote of the magazine's individually is an article by Alfred Henry Lewis, "The Madness of Much Money." This is a scathing attack on the vulgar display of great wealth to which the new generation of millionaires has treated the country. With a brutal directness Mr. Lewis diagnoses the madness which often goes with much and sudden wealth and ridicules unsparingly the gilded idlers who make up the so-called American allstooracy. It is a rough, even a pittless arraignment of certain prominent persons, and it is safe to be generally read and appreciated all over the country.

interview with Alief Bey, at which the whole situation in Macedonia was discussed. As a result of this conference a much better feeling prevalls, and confident hopes are expressed that a satisfactory adjustment will be reached. This

The general effect of these conferences in Constantinople, and Sofia has induced a much more honeful feeling here, although in Balkan affairs it is ni-ways possible that the next day's hapenings may change the entire situation. The ministry has taken steps to strengthen the Bulgarian frontier forces, and it is reported that the troops will occupy all the commanding positions, thus making it almost impossible for baids to cross the frontier. The City Getting Ready to Take Care of Big Crowds.
The question is so often asked how can st. Louis expect to entertain the large crowds which are expected at the exposition next November? That it will be, perhaps, welcome information to give what ex-Governor Francis, the president of the exposition said on the subject the other day while on a visit to Kansas City.

City:
Sald he, "I have encountered here a great many inquiries about hotel facilities at St. Louis. To all inquiring, I expressed the conviction that St. Louis will have solved this question by the time of opening the fair. I told them about the new fire proof Jefferson and other permanent hotels; about the big temporary hotel inside the fair grounds with 2,000 rooms, and three other temporary structures which will be built, two of which, will have a capetty of 2,000 rooms each and the three 50 rooms." When it is remembered that the largest hotel in New York has a capetty of just 1,000 guests, some idea of the numbers that can be entertained in St. Louis can be had. It will be interesting to the many authors of Richmond and Virginia to know that an American author's day at the World's Fair is a probability, Claude H. Witmore, of St. Louis has a letter from J. Grosvenor Dawe, scorstary of the American Authors' Society, requesting him to arrange for a day at the fair next year. The centennial of Nathaniel Hawthorne's birth, July 4, 1904, has been suggested as an appropriate day for the occasion. City: Said he, "I have encountered here a
